

DRAFT GUIDELINES – ASSAULT OFFENCES

COMMON ASSAULT

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The court should determine the offence category with reference only to the factors listed in the tables below. In order to determine the category the court should assess culpability and harm.

The level of culpability is determined by weighing up all the factors of the case. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of culpability, the court should balance these characteristics to reach a fair assessment of the offender's culpability.

Culpability demonstrated by one or more of the following:
A - High culpability:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Intention to cause fear of serious harm, including disease transmission • Targeting of vulnerable victim, where victim vulnerable by personal characteristics or circumstances • Prolonged assault • Use of substantial force • Strangulation • Threatened or actual use of weapon or weapon equivalent* • Leading role in group activity
B – Lesser culpability
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Lesser role in group activity • Mental disorder or learning disability, where linked to the commission of the offence • All other cases not captured by category A factors
*Examples of a weapon equivalent can include but are not limited to: a shod foot, use of acid, use of animal in commission of offence.

Harm
The court should consider the factors set out below to determine the level of harm that has been caused or was intended to be caused to the victim.
Category 1	More than minor physical or psychological harm/distress
Category 2	Minor physical or psychological harm/distress
Category 3	No/very low level of physical harm and/or distress

STEP TWO

Having determined the category, the court should use the corresponding starting points to reach a sentence within the category range below. The starting point applies to all offenders irrespective of plea or previous convictions. A case of particular gravity, reflected by multiple features of culpability in step one, could merit upward adjustment from the starting point before further adjustment for aggravating or mitigating features, set out below.

HARM	CULPABILITY
	A	B
Harm 1	Starting point High level Community Order Category Range Low level Community Order - 26 weeks' custody	Starting point Medium level Community Order Category Range Low level Community Order - 16 weeks' custody
Harm 2	Starting point Medium level Community Order Category Range Low level Community Order - 16 weeks' custody	Starting point Band B fine Category Range Band A Fine - low level Community Order
Harm 3	Starting point Band B fine Category Range Band A Fine - Low level Community Order	Starting point Band A Fine Category Range Discharge – Band C Fine

The table below contains a non-exhaustive list of additional factual elements providing the context of the offence and factors relating to the offender. Identify whether any combination of these, or other relevant factors, should result in an upward or downward adjustment from the starting point. In some cases, having considered these factors, it may be appropriate to move outside the identified category range.

Factors increasing seriousness

Statutory aggravating factors:

Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction

Offence committed whilst on bail

Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics or presumed characteristics of the victim: disability, sexual orientation or transgender identity

Other aggravating factors:

Spitting or coughing

Offence committed against those working in the public sector or providing a service to the public or against person coming to the assistance of emergency worker

Offence committed in prison

Offence committed in domestic context

Presence of children

Gratuitous degradation of victim

Abuse of power and/or position of trust

Any steps taken to prevent the victim reporting an incident, obtaining assistance and/or from assisting or supporting the prosecution

Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol/drugs

Offence committed whilst on licence or subject to post sentence supervision

Failure to comply with current court orders

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions

Remorse

Good character and/or exemplary conduct

Significant degree of provocation

Age and/or lack of maturity

Mental disorder or learning disability, where not linked to the commission of the offence

Sole or primary carer for dependent relative(s)

Determination and/or demonstration of steps taken to address addiction or offending behaviour

Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment

RACIALLY OR RELIGIOUSLY AGGRAVATED OFFENCES ONLY

Having determined the category of the basic offence to identify the sentence of a non-aggravated offence, the court should now consider the level of racial or religious aggravation involved and apply an appropriate uplift to the sentence in accordance with the guidance below. The following is a list of factors which the court should consider to determine the level of aggravation. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of aggravation, the court should balance these to reach a fair assessment of the level of aggravation present in the offence.

Maximum sentence for the aggravated offence on indictment is 2 years' custody (maximum when tried summarily is 6 months' custody)

Care should be taken to avoid double counting factors already taken into account in assessing the level of harm at step one

HIGH LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none">Racial or religious aggravation was the predominant motivation for the offence.Offender was a member of, or was associated with, a group promoting hostility based on race or religion.	Increase the length of custodial sentence if already considered for the basic offence or consider a custodial sentence, if not already considered for the basic offence.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused severe distress to the victim or the victim's family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused serious fear and distress throughout local community or more widely.
MEDIUM LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Racial or religious aggravation formed a significant proportion of the offence as a whole. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused some distress to the victim or the victim's family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused some fear and distress throughout local community or more widely. 	Consider a significantly more onerous penalty of the same type or consider a more severe type of sentence than for the basic offence.
LOW LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Aggravated element formed a minimal part of the offence as a whole. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused minimal or no distress to the victim or the victim's family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). 	Consider a more onerous penalty of the same type identified for the basic offence.

Magistrates may find that, although the appropriate sentence for the basic offence would be within their powers, the appropriate increase for the aggravated offence would result in a sentence in excess of their powers. If so, they must commit for sentence to the Crown Court.

The sentencer should state in open court that the offence was aggravated by reason of race or religion, and should also state what the sentence would have been without that element of aggravation.

STEP THREE

Consider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOUR

Reduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVE

Dangerousness

Racially/religiously aggravated common assault is a specified offence within the meaning of Chapter 5 of Part 12 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003. The court should consider whether having regard to the criteria contained in that Chapter it would be appropriate to impose an extended sentence (section 226A).

STEP SIX

Totality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Totality guideline.

STEP SEVEN

Compensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

STEP EIGHT

Reasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP NINE

Consideration for time spent on bail (tagged curfew)

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

ASSAULT ON EMERGENCY WORKER

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The court should determine the offence category with reference only to the factors listed in the tables below. In order to determine the category the court should assess culpability and harm.

The level of culpability is determined by weighing up all the factors of the case. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of culpability, the court should balance these characteristics to reach a fair assessment of the offender's culpability.

Culpability demonstrated by one or more of the following:
A - High culpability:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Intention to cause fear of serious harm, including disease transmission • Prolonged assault • Use of substantial force • Threatened or actual use of weapon or weapon equivalent* • Strangulation • Leading role in group activity
B – Lesser culpability
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Lesser role in group activity • Mental disorder or learning disability, where linked to the commission of the offence • All other cases not captured by category 1 factors
*Examples of a weapon equivalent can include but are not limited to: a shod foot, use of acid, use of animal in commission of offence.

Harm
The court should consider the factors set out below to determine the level of harm that has been caused or was intended to be caused to the victim.
Category 1	More than minor physical or psychological harm/distress
Category 2	Minor physical or psychological harm/distress
Category 3	No/very low level of physical harm and/or distress

STEP TWO

Having determined the category, the court should use the corresponding starting points to reach a sentence within the category range below. The starting point applies to all offenders irrespective of plea or previous convictions. A case of particular gravity, reflected by multiple features of culpability in step one, could merit upward adjustment from the starting point before further adjustment for aggravating or mitigating features, set out below.

	A	B
Harm 1	Starting point 8 months Category Range 26 weeks' – 1 years' custody	Starting point 16 weeks Category Range High level Community Order - 26 weeks' custody
Harm 2	Starting point 16 weeks Category Range High level Community Order - 26 weeks' custody	Starting point HL CO Category Range Low Level Community Order – 16 weeks
Harm 3	Starting point HL CO Category Range Low Level Community Order – 16 weeks	Starting point ML CO Category Range Band B Fine – HL CO

The table below contains a non-exhaustive list of additional factual elements providing the context of the offence and factors relating to the offender. Identify whether any combination of these, or other relevant factors, should result in an upward or downward adjustment from the starting point. In some cases, having considered these factors, it may be appropriate to move outside the identified category range.

Factors increasing seriousness

Statutory aggravating factors:

Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction

Offence committed whilst on bail

Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics or presumed characteristics of the victim: race, religion, disability, sexual orientation or transgender identity

Other aggravating factors:

Spitting or coughing

Victim isolated and/or had no opportunity to escape situation

Presence of children

Gratuitous degradation of victim

Any steps taken to prevent the victim reporting an incident, obtaining assistance and/or from assisting or supporting the prosecution

Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol/drugs

Offence committed whilst on licence or subject to post sentence supervision

Failure to comply with current court orders

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions

Remorse

Good character and/or exemplary conduct

Age and/or lack of maturity

Mental disorder or learning disability, where not linked to the commission of the offence

Sole or primary carer for dependent relative(s)

Determination and/or demonstration of steps taken to address addiction or offending behaviour

Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment

STEP THREE

Consider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOUR

Reduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVE

Totality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Totality guideline.

STEP SIX

Compensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

STEP SEVEN

Reasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP EIGHT

Consideration for time spent on bail (tagged curfew)

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO RESIST ARREST

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The court should determine the offence category with reference only to the factors listed in the tables below. In order to determine the category the court should assess culpability and harm.

The level of culpability is determined by weighing up all the factors of the case. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of culpability, the court should balance these characteristics to reach a fair assessment of the offender's culpability.

Harm
The court should consider the factors set out below to determine the level of harm that has been caused or was intended to be caused to the victim.
Category 1	More than minor physical or psychological harm/distress
Category 2	Minor physical or psychological harm/distress
Category 3	No/very low level of physical harm and/or distress

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The court should determine the offence category with reference only to the factors listed in the tables below. In order to determine the category the court should assess culpability and harm.

The level of culpability is determined by weighing up all the factors of the case. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of culpability, the court should balance these characteristics giving appropriate weight to relevant factors to reach a fair assessment of the offender’s culpability.

Culpability demonstrated by one or more of the following:
A - High culpability <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Significant degree of planning or premeditation • Victim obviously vulnerable due to age, personal characteristics or circumstances • Use of a highly dangerous weapon or weapon equivalent* • Strangulation • Leading role in group activity • Prolonged assault

Weapon equivalents can include corrosive substances (such as acid), whose dangerous nature must be substantially above and beyond the legislative definition of an offensive weapon which is; ‘any article made or adapted for use for causing injury, or is intended by the person having it with him for such use’. The court must determine whether the weapon or weapon equivalent is highly dangerous on the facts and circumstances of the case.

Harm

To assess the level of harm caused by the offence, the court must consider;

- The range of injuries (including physical and psychological injury) that can occur in cases of assault occasioning actual bodily harm
- Where in that range of injuries the injury caused falls

Category 1	High level of physical or psychological harm
Category 2	Medium level of physical or psychological harm
Category 3	Low level of physical or psychological harm

STEP TWO

Having determined the category, the court should use the corresponding starting points to reach a sentence within the category range below. The starting point applies to all offenders irrespective of plea or previous convictions. Identify whether any combination of these, or other relevant factors, should result in an upward or downward adjustment from the starting point. In some cases, having considered these factors, it may be appropriate to move outside the identified category range.

Factors increasing seriousness

Statutory aggravating factors:

Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction

Offence committed whilst on bail

Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics or presumed characteristics of the victim: disability, sexual orientation or transgender identity

Offence was committed against an emergency worker acting in the exercise of functions as such a worker.

Other aggravating factors:

Spitting or coughing

Offence committed against those working in the public sector or providing a service to the public or against person coming to the assistance of emergency worker

Offence committed in prison

Offence committed in domestic context

History of violence or abuse towards victim by offender

Presence of children

Gratuitous degradation of victim

Abuse of power and/or position of trust

Any steps taken to prevent the victim reporting an incident, obtaining assistance and/or from assisting or supporting the prosecution

Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol/drugs

Offence committed whilst on licence or subject to post sentence supervision

Failure to comply with current court orders

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions

Remorse

Good character and/or exemplary conduct

Significant degree of provocation

History of significant violence or abuse towards the offender by the victim

Age and/or lack of maturity

Mental disorder or learning disability, where not linked to the commission of the offence

Sole or primary carer for dependent relative(s)

Determination and/or demonstration of steps taken to address addiction or offending behaviour

Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment

RACIALLY OR RELIGIOUSLY AGGRAVATED OFFENCES ONLY

Having determined the category of the basic offence to identify the sentence of a non-aggravated offence, the court should now consider the level of racial or religious aggravation involved and apply an appropriate uplift to the sentence in accordance with the guidance below. The following is a list of factors which the court should consider to determine the level of aggravation. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of aggravation, the court should balance these to reach a fair assessment of the level of aggravation present in the offence.

Maximum sentence for the aggravated offence on indictment is 7 years’ custody (maximum when tried summarily is 6 months’ custody)

Care should be taken to avoid double counting factors already taken into account in assessing the level of harm at step one

HIGH LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Racial or religious aggravation was the predominant motivation for the offence. ▪ Offender was a member of, or was associated with, a group promoting hostility based on race or religion. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused severe distress to the victim or the victim’s family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused serious fear and distress throughout local community or more widely. 	Increase the length of custodial sentence if already considered for the basic offence or consider a custodial sentence, if not already considered for the basic offence.
MEDIUM LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Racial or religious aggravation formed a significant proportion of the offence as a whole. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused some distress to the 	Consider a significantly more onerous penalty of the same type or consider a more severe type of sentence than for the basic offence.

LOW LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Aggravated element formed a minimal part of the offence as a whole. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused minimal or no distress to the victim or the victim's family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). 	Consider a more onerous penalty of the same type identified for the basic offence.

Magistrates may find that, although the appropriate sentence for the basic offence would be within their powers, the appropriate increase for the aggravated offence would result in a sentence in excess of their powers. If so, they must commit for sentence to the Crown Court.

The sentencer should state in open court that the offence was aggravated by reason of race or religion, and should also state what the sentence would have been without that element of aggravation.

STEP THREEConsider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOURReduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVEDangerousness

The court should consider whether having regard to the criteria contained in Chapter 5 of Part 12 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 it would be appropriate to impose an extended sentence (section 226A).

STEP SIXTotality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Totality guideline.

STEP SEVENCompensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

STEP EIGHTReasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP NINEConsideration for time spent on bail (tagged curfew)

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The court should determine the offence category with reference only to the factors listed in the tables below. In order to determine the category the court should assess culpability and harm.

The level of culpability is determined by weighing up all the factors of the case. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of culpability, the court should balance these characteristics giving appropriate weight to relevant factors to reach a fair assessment of the offender’s culpability.

Culpability demonstrated by one or more of the following:

A - High culpability

- Significant degree of planning or premeditation
- Victim obviously vulnerable due to age, personal characteristics or circumstances
- Use of a highly dangerous weapon or weapon equivalent*
- Strangulation
- Leading role in group activity
- Prolonged assault

B – Medium culpability

- Use of a weapon or weapon equivalent which does not fall within category A
- Lesser role in group activity
- Cases falling between category A or C because:
 - Factors in both high and lesser categories are present which balance each other out; and/or
 - The offender’s culpability falls between the factors as described in high and lesser culpability

C – Lesser culpability

- No weapon used
- Excessive self defence
- Mental disorder or learning disability, where linked to the commission of the offence

* A highly dangerous weapon includes weapons such as knives and firearms. Weapon equivalents can include corrosive substances (such as acid), whose dangerous nature must be substantially above and beyond the legislative definition of an offensive weapon which is; ‘any article made or adapted for use for causing injury, or is intended by the person having it with him for such use’. The court must determine whether the weapon or weapon equivalent is highly dangerous on the facts and circumstances of the case.

Harm

All cases will involve 'really serious harm', which can be physical or psychological, or wounding. The court should assess the level of harm caused with reference to the impact on the victim

Category 1

Particularly grave and/or life-threatening injury caused

Injury results in physical or psychological harm resulting in lifelong dependency on third party care or medical treatment

Offence results in a permanent, irreversible injury or condition which has a substantial and long term effect on the victim's ability to carry out normal day to day activities or on their ability to work

Category 2

Grave but non life-threatening injury caused

Offence results in a permanent, irreversible injury or condition but no substantial and long term effect on victim's ability to carry out normal day to day activities or on their ability to work

Category 3

All other cases of really serious harm

All other cases of wounding

STEP TWO

Having determined the category, the court should use the corresponding starting points to reach a sentence within the category range below. The starting point applies to all offenders irrespective of plea or previous convictions. A case of particular gravity, reflected by multiple features of culpability in step one, could merit upward adjustment from the starting point before further adjustment for aggravating or mitigating features, set out below.

HARM	CULPABILITY

Harm 3	Starting point 2 years' custody Category Range 1-3 years' custody	Starting point 1 years' custody Category Range High Level Community Order - 2 years' custody	Starting point 26 weeks' custody Category Range Medium Level Community Order – 1 years' custody

The table below contains a non-exhaustive list of additional factual elements providing the context of the offence and factors relating to the offender. Identify whether any combination of these, or other relevant factors, should result in an upward or downward adjustment from the starting point. In some cases, having considered these factors, it may be appropriate to move outside the identified category range.

Factors increasing seriousness

Statutory aggravating factors:

Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction

Offence committed whilst on bail

Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics or presumed characteristics of the victim: disability, sexual orientation or transgender identity

Offence was committed against an emergency worker acting in the exercise of functions as such a worker.

Other aggravating factors:

Spitting

Offence committed against those working in the public sector or providing a service to the public

Offence committed in prison

Offence committed in domestic context

History of violence or abuse towards victim by offender

Presence of children

Gratuitous degradation of victim

Abuse of power and/or position of trust

Any steps taken to prevent the victim reporting an incident, obtaining assistance and/or from assisting or supporting the prosecution

Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol/drugs

Offence committed whilst on licence or subject to post sentence supervision

Failure to comply with current court orders

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions

Remorse

Good character and/or exemplary conduct

Significant degree of provocation

History of significant violence or abuse towards the offender by the victim

Age and/or lack of maturity

Mental disorder or learning disability, where not linked to the commission of the offence

Sole or primary carer for dependent relative(s)

Determination and/or demonstration of steps taken to address addiction or offending behaviour

Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment

RACIALLY OR RELIGIOUSLY AGGRAVATED OFFENCES ONLY

Having determined the category of the basic offence to identify the sentence of a non-aggravated offence, the court should now consider the level of racial or religious aggravation involved and apply an appropriate uplift to the sentence in accordance with the guidance below. The following is a list of factors which the court should consider to determine the level of aggravation. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of aggravation, the court should balance these to reach a fair assessment of the level of aggravation present in the offence.

Maximum sentence for the aggravated offence on indictment is 7 years’ custody (maximum when tried summarily is 6 months’ custody)

Care should be taken to avoid double counting factors already taken into account in assessing the level of harm at step one

HIGH LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Racial or religious aggravation was the predominant motivation for the offence. ▪ Offender was a member of, or was associated with, a group promoting hostility based on race or religion. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused severe distress to the victim or the victim’s family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused serious fear and distress throughout local community or more widely. 	Increase the length of custodial sentence if already considered for the basic offence or consider a custodial sentence, if not already considered for the basic offence.
MEDIUM LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Racial or religious aggravation formed a significant proportion of the offence as a whole. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused some distress to the 	Consider a significantly more onerous penalty of the same type or consider a more severe type of sentence than for the basic offence.

victim or the victim's family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused some fear and distress throughout local community or more widely.
LOW LEVEL OF RACIAL OR RELIGIOUS AGGRAVATION	SENTENCE UPLIFT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Aggravated element formed a minimal part of the offence as a whole. ▪ Aggravated nature of the offence caused minimal or no distress to the victim or the victim's family (over and above the distress already considered at step one). 	Consider a more onerous penalty of the same type identified for the basic offence.

Magistrates may find that, although the appropriate sentence for the basic offence would be within their powers, the appropriate increase for the aggravated offence would result in a sentence in excess of their powers. If so, they must commit for sentence to the Crown Court.

The sentencer should state in open court that the offence was aggravated by reason of race or religion, and should also state what the sentence would have been without that element of aggravation.

STEP THREEConsider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOURReduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVEDangerousness

The court should consider whether having regard to the criteria contained in Chapter 5 of Part 12 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 it would be appropriate to impose an extended sentence (section 226A).

STEP SIXTotality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Totality guideline.

STEP SEVENCompensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

STEP EIGHTReasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP NINEConsideration for time spent on bail (tagged curfew)

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

GBH S18

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The court should determine the offence category with reference only to the factors listed in the tables below. In order to determine the category the court should assess culpability and harm. The level of culpability is determined by weighing up all the factors of the case. Where there are characteristics present which fall under different levels of culpability, the court should balance these characteristics giving appropriate weight to relevant factors to reach a fair assessment of the offender's culpability.

Culpability demonstrated by one or more of the following:

A - High culpability

- Significant degree of planning or premeditation
- Victim obviously vulnerable due to age, personal characteristics or circumstances
- Use of a highly dangerous weapon or weapon equivalent*
- Strangulation
- Leading role in group activity
- Prolonged assault
- Revenge

B – Medium culpability

- Use of a weapon or weapon equivalent which does not fall within category A
- Lesser role in group activity
- Cases falling between category high and low culpability because:
 - Factors in both high and lesser categories are present which balance each other out; and/or
 - The offender's culpability falls between the factors as described in high and lesser culpability

C – Lesser culpability

- No weapon used
- Excessive self defence
- Offender acted in response to prolonged or extreme violence or abuse by victim
- Mental disorder or learning disability, where linked to the commission of the offence

* A highly dangerous weapon includes weapons such as knives and firearms. Weapon equivalents can include corrosive substances (such as acid), whose dangerous nature must be substantially above and beyond the legislative definition of an offensive weapon which is; 'any article made or adapted for use for causing injury, or is intended by the person having it with him for such use'. The court must determine whether the weapon or weapon equivalent is highly dangerous on the facts and circumstances of the case. Non-highly dangerous weapon equivalents may include but are not limited to a shod foot, headbutting, use of animal in commission of offence.

Harm
All cases will involve 'really serious harm', which can be physical or psychological, or wounding. The court should assess the level of harm caused with reference to the impact on the victim
Category 1	Particularly grave or life-threatening injury caused Injury results in physical or psychological harm resulting in lifelong dependency on third party care or medical treatment Offence results in a permanent, irreversible injury or psychological condition which has a substantial and long term effect on the victim's ability to carry out normal day to day activities or on their ability to work
Category 2	Grave injury Offence results in a permanent, irreversible injury or condition not falling within category 1
Category 3	All other cases of really serious harm All other cases of wounding

STEP TWO

Having determined the category, the court should use the corresponding starting points to reach a sentence within the category range below. The starting point applies to all offenders irrespective of plea or previous convictions. A case of particular gravity, reflected by multiple features of culpability in step one, could merit upward adjustment from the starting point before further adjustment for aggravating or mitigating features, set out below.

For category A1 offences the extreme nature of one or more high culpability factors or the extreme impact caused by a combination of high culpability factors may attract a sentence higher than the offence category range

HARM	CULPABILITY
	A	B	C
Harm 1	Starting point 12 years' custody Category Range 10-16 years' custody	Starting point 7 years' custody Category Range 6-10 years' custody	Starting point 5 years' custody Category Range 4-7 years' custody
Harm 2	Starting point 7 years' custody Category Range 6-10 years' custody	Starting point 5 years' custody Category Range 4-7 years' custody	Starting point 4 years' custody Category Range 3 – 6 years' custody
Harm 3	Starting point 5 years' custody Category Range 4-7 years' custody	Starting point 4 years' custody Category Range 3-6 years' custody	Starting point 3 years' custody Category Range 2-4 years' custody

The table below contains a non-exhaustive list of additional factual elements providing the context of the offence and factors relating to the offender. Identify whether any combination of these, or other relevant factors, should result in an upward or downward adjustment from the starting point. In some cases, having considered these factors, it may be appropriate to move outside the identified category range.

Factors increasing seriousness

Statutory aggravating factors:

Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction

Offence committed whilst on bail

Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics or presumed characteristics of the victim: race, religion, disability, sexual orientation or transgender identity

Offence was committed against an emergency worker acting in the exercise of functions as such a worker.

Other aggravating factors:

Offence committed against those working in the public sector or providing a service to the public

Offence committed in prison

Offence committed in domestic context

History of violence or abuse towards victim by offender (where not taken into account at step one)

Presence of children

Gratuitous degradation of victim

Abuse of power and/or position of trust

Any steps taken to prevent the victim reporting an incident, obtaining assistance and/or from assisting or supporting the prosecution

Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol/drugs

Offence committed whilst on licence or subject to post sentence supervision

Failure to comply with current court orders

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions

Remorse

Good character and/or exemplary conduct

Significant degree of provocation

History of significant violence or abuse towards the offender by the victim (where not taken into account at step one)

Age and/or lack of maturity

Mental disorder or learning disability, where not linked to the commission of the offence

Sole or primary carer for dependent relative(s)

Determination and/or demonstration of steps taken to address addiction or offending behaviour

Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment

STEP THREEConsider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOURReduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVEDangerousness

The court should consider whether having regard to the criteria contained in Chapter 5 of Part 12 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 it would be appropriate to impose a life sentence (section 224A or section 225) or an extended sentence (section 226A). When sentencing offenders to a life sentence under these provisions, the notional determinate sentence should be used as the basis for the setting of a minimum term.

STEP SIXTotality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Totality guideline.

STEP SEVENCompensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

STEP EIGHTReasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP NINEConsideration for time spent on bail (tagged curfew)

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

ATTEMPTED MURDER

STEP ONE

Determining the offence category

The characteristics below are indications of the level of culpability that may attach to the offender's conduct. Where there are characteristics present which fall into both higher and lower categories, the court must carefully weigh those characteristics to reach a fair assessment of the category which best reflects the offender's overall culpability in all the circumstances of the case. The court may then adjust the starting point for that category to reflect the presence of characteristics from another category.

Culpability demonstrated by one or more of the following:

A – Very High culpability	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Abduction of the victim with intent to murder • Attempted murder of a child • Offence motivated by or involves sexual or sadistic conduct • Offence involves the use of a firearm or explosive or fire • Offence committed for financial gain • Attempted murder of a police officer or prison officer in the course of their duty • Offence committed for the purpose of advancing a political, religious, racial or ideological cause • Offence intended to obstruct or interfere with the course of justice • Offence racially or religiously aggravated or aggravated by sexual orientation, disability or transgender identity
B- High culpability	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Offender took a knife or other weapon to the scene intending to commit any offence or have it available to use as a weapon, and used that knife or other weapon in committing the offence. • Planning or premeditation of murder
C - Medium culpability	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use of weapon not in category A or B • Lack of premeditation/spontaneous attempt to kill
D- Lesser culpability	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Excessive self defence • Offender acted in response to prolonged or extreme violence or abuse by victim • Offender's responsibility substantially reduced by mental disorder or learning disability

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Genuine belief by the offender that the offence was an act of mercy
--	---

Harm
Category 1	Injury results in physical or psychological harm resulting in lifelong dependency on third party care or medical treatment Offence results in a permanent, irreversible injury or psychological condition which has a substantial and long term effect on the victim's ability to carry out normal day to day activities or on their ability to work
Category 2	Serious physical or psychological harm not in category 1
Category 3	All other cases

STEP TWO

Having determined the category, the court should use the corresponding starting points to reach a sentence within the category range below before further adjustment for aggravating or mitigating features, set out below.

For offences involving an extreme nature of one or more very high or high culpability factors a sentence higher than the offence category range or an extended or life sentence may be appropriate. Extended and life sentences are dealt with at Step 5 of the guideline.

HARM	CULPABILITY
	A	B	C	D
Harm 1	Starting point 35 years Category Range 30 - 40	Starting point 30 Category Range 25-35	Starting point 25 Category Range 20-30	Starting point 14 Category Range 10-20
Harm 2	Starting point 30 years Category Range 25-35	Starting point 25 Category Range 20-30	Starting point 20 Category Range 15-25	Starting point 8 Category Range 5-12
Harm 3	Starting point 25 Category Range 20-30	Starting point 20 Category Range 15-25	Starting point 10 Category Range 7-15	Starting point 5 Category Range 3-6

Note: The table is for a single offence against a single victim. Where another offence or offences arise out of the same incident or facts, concurrent sentences reflecting the overall criminality of offending will ordinarily be appropriate: please refer to the Offences Taken into Consideration and Totality guideline.

The table below contains a non-exhaustive list of additional factual elements providing the context of the offence and factors relating to the offender. Identify whether any combination of these, or other relevant factors, should result in an upward or downward adjustment from the starting point. In some cases, having considered these factors, it may be appropriate to move outside the identified category range.

Factors increasing seriousness

Statutory aggravating factors:

Previous convictions, having regard to a) the nature of the offence to which the conviction relates and its relevance to the current offence; and b) the time that has elapsed since the conviction

Offence committed whilst on bail

Offence motivated by, or demonstrating hostility based on any of the following characteristics of the victim: disability, sexual orientation or gender identity

Other aggravating factors:

Offence committed against those working in the public sector or providing a service to the public

Offence committed in prison

Offence committed in domestic context

History of violence or abuse towards victim by offender (where not taken into account at step one)

Abuse of position of trust

Gratuitous degradation of victim

Others put at risk of harm by the offence

Use of duress or threats against another person to facilitate the commission of the offence

Actions after the event (including but not limited to attempts to cover up/conceal evidence)

Steps taken to prevent the victim from seeking or receiving medical assistance

Commission of offence whilst under the influence of alcohol/drugs

Offence committed whilst on licence or subject to post sentence supervision

Failure to comply with current court orders

Factors reducing seriousness or reflecting personal mitigation

No previous convictions or no relevant/recent convictions

Significant degree of provocation (including due to prolonged and/or excessive stress linked to circumstances of offence)

History of significant violence or abuse towards the offender by the victim (where not taken into account at step one)

Attempt by offender to give assistance/summon help when the attempted murder failed

Remorse

Good character and/or exemplary conduct

Age and/or lack of maturity

Mental disorder or learning disability, where not linked to the commission of the offence (where not taken into account at step one)

Sole or primary carer for dependent relative(s)

Serious medical conditions requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment

STEP THREE

Consider any factors which indicate a reduction for assistance to the prosecution

The court should take into account sections 73 and 74 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 (assistance by defendants: reduction or review of sentence) and any other rule of law by virtue of which an offender may receive a discounted sentence in consequence of assistance given (or offered) to the prosecutor or investigator.

STEP FOUR

Reduction for guilty pleas

The court should take account of any potential reduction for a guilty plea in accordance with section 144 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the Guilty Plea guideline.

STEP FIVE

Dangerousness

The court should consider whether having regard to the criteria contained in Chapter 5 of Part 12 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 it would be appropriate to impose a life sentence (section 224A or section 225) or an extended sentence (section 226A). When sentencing offenders to a life sentence under these provisions, the notional determinate sentence should be used as the basis for the setting of a minimum term.

STEP SIX

Special custodial sentence for certain offenders of particular concern (section 236A)

Where the offence has a terrorist connection and satisfies the criteria in Schedule 18A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 and the court does not impose a sentence of imprisonment for life or an extended sentence, but does impose a period of imprisonment, the term of the sentence must be equal to the aggregate of the appropriate custodial term and a further period of 1 year for which the offender is to be subject to a licence.

STEP SEVEN

Totality principle

If sentencing an offender for more than one offence, or where the offender is already serving a sentence, consider whether the total sentence is just and proportionate to the overall offending behaviour in accordance with the Offences Taken into Consideration and Totality guideline.

STEP SEVEN

Compensation and ancillary orders

In all cases the court should consider whether to make compensation and/or other ancillary orders.

Where the offence involves a firearm, an imitation firearm or an offensive weapon the court may consider the criteria in section 19 of the Serious Crime Act 2007 for the imposition of a Serious Crime Prevention Order.

STEP EIGHT

Reasons

Section 174 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 imposes a duty to give reasons for, and explain the effect of, the sentence.

STEP NINE

Consideration for time spent on bail

The court must consider whether to give credit for time spent on bail in accordance with section 240A of the Criminal Justice Act 2003.

Assault guideline: Crown Court road testing Revenge in GBH (s18) and ABH offences

Aims of the research

This research was conducted to assess the impact of the high culpability factors for GBH (s18) on sentencing practice, and specifically whether the inclusion of revenge, in addition to planning/pre-meditation, as a culpability factor, leads to an inflation of sentences. The research also aimed to test whether sentencers take revenge into account as an aggravating factor in ABH cases that are gang/group-related.

Methodology

The research was carried out by online survey, which included two scenarios of GBH (s18) and ABH (see annex), and took participants through the guideline, asking how they would apply each step. We sent the survey to 48 Crown Court judges, all of whom had been previously approached in late 2018 to take part in road testing on assault offences prior to the drafting of the new guideline. The survey was open for three weeks and a reminder was sent a week before closing to all those who had not responded at that point. Participants were not told that the research was focussed on revenge, in order not to influence their responses.

We received responses from 26 judges, half of whom (n=13) received the guidelines with revenge included in culpability factors for GBH and aggravating factors for ABH, and half of whom received the guidelines without any inclusion of revenge.

Due to the small sample size, the findings are not necessarily representative of sentencing practice, and should be taken as indicative rather than conclusive. Furthermore, the scenarios were designed to test one element of the sentencing process only and therefore included only limited details of the cases.

Key findings

The key findings for GBH (s18) and ABH are set out below.

GBH (s18)

- where revenge was included in the guideline as a culpability factor, all sentencers identified both planning/pre-meditation and revenge as high culpability factors, and placed the offence at high culpability
- where revenge was not included in the guideline as a high culpability factor, all but one of the sentencers placed the offence at high culpability
- most sentencers also interpreted poisoning as equivalent to a highly dangerous weapon, and identified this as a high culpability factor
- a few sentencers (3 out of 13) moved above the starting point, where revenge was identified as a high culpability factor, and one sentencer moved above the starting point, where revenge was not included in the guideline as a high culpability factor
- it is not possible to say whether the inclusion of revenge as an additional high culpability factor may lead to inflation of sentences, where planning or pre-meditation is also a factor in the case

- sentence starting points varied considerably for this scenario
- most sentencers (11 out of 13) identified revenge when it was included in the guideline as an aggravating factor
- a few sentencers (3 out of 13) identified revenge as an additional factor, when it was not included in the guideline
- about half of sentencers who identified revenge as an aggravating factor (across both groups) increased the sentence from its starting point

Detailed findings – GBH (s18)

Participants were given a scenario in which the defendant had poisoned her husband with non-prescribed medication, after discovering he was having an affair. Her internet history indicated she had searched for ways ‘to poison someone but not kill them.’ Half (n=13) of participants (Group A) were sent a version of the guideline which included revenge as a high culpability factor, and half (n=13; Group B) were sent a version of the guideline which did not include revenge as a factor.

It was expected that participants would apply high culpability due to the element of planning. We wanted to understand whether sentencers in Group A would move above the starting point due to the inclusion of an additional factor.

Culpability

Almost all sentencers placed the offender in the high culpability category, regardless of whether revenge had been included as a factor in the guideline.

	Culpability
	High	Medium	Low
Group A	13
Group B	12	1

In both groups, all sentencers identified significant degree of planning or pre-meditation as a factor, and most (18 out of 26) identified use of a highly dangerous weapon or weapon equivalent as a factor. Three sentencers also identified the victim as obviously vulnerable, and four identified prolonged assault as additional high culpability factors.

We asked participants why they had chosen the level of culpability they did. Seven sentencers from Group A stated the presence of three high culpability factors as their reason for placing the offence in high culpability. Their comments included:

Planned, highly dangerous substance and revenge attack over a period of time
(placed in high culpability)

Because it was a well-planned and highly dangerous poisoning of an unsuspecting victim in order to wreak revenge
(placed in high culpability)

One indicated that they would have placed the offence in high culpability, regardless of the presence of a highly dangerous weapon equivalent:

Whilst I accept it may be open to argument whether the particular poison falls under the definition of 'weapon equivalent' the research into the substance amounts to a significant degree of planning and premeditation and there is an obvious motive of revenge
(placed in high culpability)

In Group A, there were three sentencers who did not include use of a highly dangerous weapon equivalent as a factor, and two of them instead identified use of a weapon or weapon equivalent which does not fall into Category A. The comments from these two sentencers indicate that the presence of both planning and revenge led them to place the offence into high culpability. All three had identified revenge as a high culpability factor.

Five sentencers in Group B did not identify use of a highly dangerous weapon or weapon equivalent as a culpability factor, and four out of five still placed the offender in the high culpability category based on one factor: significant degree of planning or pre-meditation. One sentencer placed the offender in the medium culpability category and stated in their comments:

there was significant planning but no weapon as defined (placed in medium culpability)

Harm

In Group A, six sentencers applied category 1 harm, and seven applied category 2 harm. In Group B, five applied category 1 harm, seven applied category 2 and one applied category 3.

	Harm
	Cat 1	Cat 2	Cat 3
Group A	6	7
Group B	5	7	1

The comments from both groups in response to why they chose the level of harm indicated that it depended on how the sentencer viewed the impact on the victim of no longer being able to drink alcohol.

It seems to me that drinking alcohol would be seen objectively as a normal day to day activity which has been substantially affected on a long-term basis (placed in category 1)

I cannot quite describe an inability to drink alcohol as a "grave injury" ... it rather depends on the part that alcohol played in the victim's life (placed in category 3)

Starting points

Sentencing starting points varied, largely due to the variation in categories of harm. There was also some variation as a result of sentencers deviating from the guideline starting point. In Group A, three sentencers started above the guideline starting point, and two started below it. In Group B, one sentencer started above the guideline starting point, and two started below it.¹

It is not possible to say whether the inclusion of revenge has led to an inflation of sentences, because sentencers placed the offence at high culpability regardless of whether revenge was present as a factor.

Detailed findings – ABH

Participants were given a scenario in which the defendant had seen a member of a rival gang over the road, run and pushed him over, and then kicked and punched him. The defendant was carrying a knife which he used to threaten the victim but did not use to physically attack him. Half (n=13) of participants (Group A) were sent a version of the guideline which included revenge as an aggravating factor, and half (n=13; Group B) were sent a version of the guideline which did not include revenge as a factor.

Culpability, harm and starting points

There was considerable variation in sentence starting points, ranging from 36 weeks to 2 years and 6 months. This is in part due to the variation in harm and culpability levels applied. In Group A, ten sentencers applied high culpability and three applied medium culpability, and all in this group applied Category 2 for harm. In Group B, all sentencers applied high culpability, and four applied Category 1 for harm, seven applied Category 2 and two applied Category 3.²

Aggravating factors

In Group A, 11 out of 13 sentencers identified revenge as an aggravating factor, and five of these went on to increase the sentence from its starting point. Three of these sentencers also noted the gang-related element as an aggravating factor, and of these one increased the sentence from its starting point, while two remained the same. One sentencer who identified revenge as a factor also noted in their comments that they “must be careful not to double count re revenge.” One sentencer did not identify revenge as an aggravating factor but included under ‘other’ factors: “the gang context leading to tit-for-tat attacks.”

In Group B, three sentencers identified “revenge” under ‘other’ aggravating factors; two of these also identified “gang-related” in their comments. Two out of three sentencers who identified revenge under ‘other’ factors went on to increase the sentence from the starting point.

In both groups, four sentencers out of 13 identified the gang-related context under ‘other’ factors.

Mitigating factors

Very few sentencers applied mitigating factors. In Group A, four sentencers identified no previous convictions as a mitigating factor, and in Group B, one sentencer identified this. No other mitigating factors were identified, though a number of sentencers commented that they would need more information to complete this step.

Final sentences

Sentencers in Group A were slightly more likely to increase the sentence from the starting point, than those in Group B (six out of 11 in Group A, compared with four out of ten in Group B). The difference is very small, so it is difficult to draw inferences about the impact of the inclusion of revenge as an aggravating factor. The identification of revenge as an aggravating factor did not necessarily lead to the sentence being increased from its starting point.

³ Some participants did not feel able to apply a final sentence without additional information. The information provided had been limited because the research set out to test a specific element of the case (revenge) and we were most interested in how this would affect the final sentence.

This table shows starting points and final sentences for each sentencer. The sentences in which revenge was identified as an aggravating factor have been highlighted green.

Overall, seven out of 14 sentencers who had identified revenge as an aggravating factor went on to increase the sentence from its starting point. However, it is not possible to say whether identifying revenge as an aggravating factor had increased the sentence in each case, because other aggravating factors may also have influenced decisions to increase the sentence. For example, one participant commented:

The context of gang violence caused me to raise the sentence above the starting point. The Defendant's (presumed) good character to a limited extent operates to cancel out the revenge nature of the attack.

Scenarios

GBH (s18)

The defendant (D) had discovered her husband (V) was having an affair. D was enraged and confided in a friend that she wasn't going to confront him but would make sure he paid for humiliating and cheating on her. A few weeks later V was admitted to hospital with severe stomach pains and vomiting, and was put into a medically induced coma. Toxicology reports confirmed the presence of an unprescribed medication in his system which was known to cause liver failure and other serious health issues.

The hospital asked D if he was taking medication and she denied all knowledge but seemed nervous so the hospital contacted the police. Examination of D's internet history found search history for 'medication with painful side effects' and 'how to poison someone but not kill them'. V recovered but his liver suffered irreparable damage, and he was advised he would not be able to drink alcohol again without risk of liver failure.

D pleaded not guilty to GBH and was found guilty after trial.

ABH

The defendant (D) was out at night when he saw a member of a rival gang member (V) across the road. In a recent fight V had attacked D's friend and injured him very badly. D knew this was an opportunity to get V on his own and make sure he paid and ran towards him taking a knife out of jacket pocket, telling him "let's see how you like getting shanked". V managed to kick the knife out of D's hand, so D overpowered him and punched and kicked V multiple times while he was on the floor.

A passing dog walker witnessed the event and called out to D to stop and that he was calling the police. D ran off leaving V on the floor. V suffered extensive bruising and a number of small cuts requiring stitches.

D pleaded not guilty to ABH and was found guilty after trial.

Findings – ABH road testing

Aims

This research was conducted to understand how harm is assessed using the draft guidelines for ABH. Previous testing indicated that this step may allow for a wide range of outcomes, depending on the sentencer’s interpretation.

Methodology

Three ABH scenarios (see Annex A) were tested with six Crown Court judges. One of the scenarios was adapted by adding a guilty plea, and this version was also tested with five magistrates.¹ An alternative harm model was developed (see Annex B), to understand how this might impact on assessment of harm and was tested at a slightly later date. The second model used different wording for each of the categories, including changing category 2 (medium level) of harm in both offences to: ‘Harm falling between categories 1 and 3.’

A sample of magistrates and judges was taken from the OSC’s research pool. The scenarios used were similar to those used in a previous road testing exercise, so any previous participants were deselected, as were any sentencers who had taken part in OSC research in the last year. Sentencers were approached by email, and the draft guidelines were sent to those who said they would like to take part. Interviews were conducted on Microsoft Teams and scenarios were sent to participants shortly before the interviews.

In total, five magistrates and six Crown Court judges were interviewed about the ABH guideline. There was a lower response rate in the second round, after the second harm model was developed, so this model was tested with fewer participants.

	Harm model 1	Harm model 2
Magistrates	4	1
Crown Court judges	3	3

Participants were asked to sentence up to three scenarios using the draft guideline. Responses were collated in an Excel grid and tables with individual sentencing outcomes are set out below. Where participants were given the second harm model, their responses are highlighted in green in the tables.

Key findings on harm

- Scenario A, involving hitting with a photo frame, was sentenced by both magistrates and Crown Court judges, most of whom (10 out of 11) placed harm in category 2.
- For scenario B, involving punching to the face, sentencers were divided between categories 1 and 2 for harm (one placed it on the cusp of the two categories). Those who placed harm in category 1 focussed on the damage to the victim’s front tooth.
- For scenario C, which was a prolonged attack with a piece of wood, sentencers were again divided between categories 1 and 2 for harm (and three were undecided). Some said they would need to see photographs of the injury or a Victim Personal Statement (VPS) to make their assessments.

¹ The research took place alongside road testing of the common assault guideline and these magistrates were also interviewed about common assault scenarios.

- There were no significant differences identified where sentencers were using the second harm model. However, it is not possible to draw conclusions due to the very small number of sentencers interviewed.
- In a number of interviews, sentencers said they would want to see the VPS and/or photographs of injuries before assessing the harm.
- One judge reasoned that ABH cases would almost always fall into category 2 for harm, because a less significant injury would be charged as common assault, and a more significant injury would be charged as GBH.

Summary findings on harm

Scenario A – hitting with a photo frame (5 magistrates)

All five sentencers placed the harm in category 2. Two noted that the victim required stitches.

Two inch gash on his forehead which needed stitches so that's quite nasty... when you think about someone having an arm broken or a leg broken, a gash on your forehead seems medium, but then it's a gash on your forehead (placed in category 2)

One said it had caused a wound and that there had also been a verbal altercation. One sentencer, who used the second model of harm, said they placed it in category 2 because it was not serious harm.

Scenario A – hitting with a photo frame (6 Crown Court judges)

5 out of 6 sentencers placed the harm in category 2, and one placed it in category 3, describing it as a 'low level of injury.' Of those who placed harm in category 2, one said it was a serious offence for ABH, and one thought the gash could have amounted to GBH s20.

I can't describe a 2 inch gash which requires stitches as low level... a wound like that could have been charged as a s20 not that the sentence is any different (placed in category 2)

One sentencer thought it came between categories 1 and 2 and chose a starting point of 12-15 months, in between these two ranges.

There would be photographs of the injury and I would be better able to make an assessment... a 2 inch gash is quite a big cut so I might go towards the upper end of category 2 or the bottom end of category 1 (placed in category 2)

Another said they would need a VPS to fully assess the harm.

One judge reasoned that ABH cases would almost always fall into category 2 for harm, because a less significant or transient injury would be charged as common assault, and a more significant injury would be charged as GBH. They noted that they thought this was due to charging policies of the CPS, with which they disagreed.

Scenario B – (6 Crown Court judges)

Sentencers were divided between placing harm in categories 1 or 2. Three placed harm in category 1, one said it was either 1 or 2, and two placed it in category 2. Those who placed it in category 1 referenced damage to the victim's front tooth, which was described as a serious physical injury and would have an ongoing impact on the victim, including damage to long-term appearance.

Although the black eye is transient, it's damage to his front tooth which becomes loose, nerve damage and permanent discolouring, and of course that's to his teeth and therefore his face and long-term appearance (placed in category 1)

One sentencer who placed harm in category 2 did not think the broken tooth was as serious.

By the sound of it there's probably not a great deal of damage... broken tooth (placed in category 2)

Scenario C – (5 Crown Court judges)

Again, sentencers were divided between placing harm in categories 1 or 2. One said it was in category 1, one said it was in category 2, and three thought it was borderline between categories 1 and 2,

A nasty cut to his face requiring five stitches, again I'm not told whether they would be permanent scarring, but it's a very visible facial injury with five stitches so it's clearly going to be around for a while and in the context of ABH – and this could very well be charged as a s20 – I think this is serious physical injury (placed in category 1)

Sentencers who thought it was borderline said they would need more information to assess the harm.

I would want to have a look at photographs to see whether or not that's going to produce scarring and if so is it to a prominent part of the face (placed between categories 1 and 2)

Depending on what the impact statement is, it would be category 2 tending to category 1 if there'd been... you know he's attacked with a blunt [piece of] wood... (placed between categories 1 and 2)

Annex A – scenarios

Scenario A – hitting with a photo frame – magistrates

J was at the funeral of her mother-in-law when her estranged husband, N, arrived with his new partner, K. J was very upset as she suspected he had been having an affair with K during the marriage. She got drunk at the wake, and confronted N for bringing K, and embarrassing her. N told her she was making a scene and embarrassing herself. J became angry and picked up a photo frame, hitting him over the head with it. The glass in the frame broke causing a two-inch gash to N's forehead which required stitches.

J was extremely upset and embarrassed after the incident, and numerous character references expressed shock at such out of character behaviour. J pleaded guilty at the first hearing.

J became angry and picked up a photo frame, hitting him over the head with it. The glass in the frame broke causing a two-inch gash to N's forehead which required stitches.

J was found guilty after trial.

Scenario B – punching to the face

R was living in a shared house with V. Tension had arisen as R was leaving communal areas in a mess which had led to arguments with his housemates. One night, V returned to find R had gone out and left the kitchen and shared bathroom in a mess. When R returned home drunk later in the evening, V confronted him, and an argument began. V rose his voice and told R his behaviour was unacceptable and that the housemates all wanted him to leave. R punched V in the face 3 times, causing a black eye and damaging one of his front teeth which became loose and suffered nerve damage and permanent discolouring.

R was found guilty after a trial.

Scenario C – prolonged attack with a piece of wood

D had bought a car from a neighbour, V, and the car had developed a very expensive fault. D was telling another neighbour of the problem with the car, when the neighbour said that V had told him the car had a serious problem a few weeks before and he was going to 'get shot of it.' D was furious and went to V's house and confronted him, asking for his money back. A nasty argument ensued; V became very aggressive and told D he 'wasn't giving him a fucking penny' and 'to get out of my fucking face before I do you'. D refused to leave so V then pushed D and punched him in the face. D was enraged, grabbed a heavy piece of wood which was leaning against the wall of V's house and swung it at V, hitting him around the head. V fell to the floor and D continued to hit him with the piece of wood and kick him to the face and body until other neighbours intervened and pulled him off. V sustained numerous cuts and bruises, including swelling to his head and eyes, and a nasty cut to his face requiring 5 stitches.

D is of previous good character and pleaded guilty on the day of trial.

Annex B – harm models

Model 1 (as in the draft guideline)

Harm
To assess the level of harm caused by the offence, the court must consider;
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The range of injuries (including physical and psychological injury) that can occur in cases of assault occasioning actual bodily harm • Where in that range of injuries the injury caused falls
Category 1	High level of physical or psychological harm
Category 2	Medium level of physical or psychological harm
Category 3	Low level of physical or psychological harm

Model 2

Harm
Category 1	Serious physical injury or serious psychological harm and substantial or ongoing impact upon victim
Category 2	Harm falling between categories 1 and 3
Category 3	Low level of physical injury or psychological harm with no ongoing impact upon victim

1 Culpability

1.1 Other suggestions were: Magistrates on the West London Bench (WLB) sought clarification, possibly by way of examples, of what a significant role would be to distinguish it from a leading role. They were also concerned about where to place an offender who performed more than a limited role under direction but might not be considered to have a significant role. It is recognised that as magistrates see these cases only very rarely it may be difficult to judge the role of offenders and thereby to assess the appropriate level of culpability, but this assessment will need to be made on the facts of each case (taking account of the wording below the culpability factors about balancing characteristics) and it is not clear that examples would assist.

1.2 The International Trademark Association (INTA) stated: 'Section B could be clearer. It seems to suggest that an offender automatically falls into Section B where the offender had a significant role in the offending group or some degree of organisation/planning. Section B should be defined as falling between sections A and C and then these activities should be given as examples of activities that fall between A and C.'

1.3 Culpability B has been deliberately worded as it is – the Council intended that it should operate in the way INTA suggests it does, subject to the requirement to balance characteristics.

1.4 A magistrate respondent suggested 'I don't think you need the third bullet point in Medium Culpability if using the qualifying statement above about making a fair assessment. The statement above should be at the top in the blue box to be read at the beginning of the assessment.' This is strictly speaking true – but experience has shown that in order to ensure that all sentencers balance the factors as intended a clear direction in medium culpability is required.

1.5 A magistrate respondent suggested adding a high culpability factor 'something along the lines of being a part of the production process - which suggests significant and wilful involvement'. The difficulty with this suggestion is that the production process could be very unsophisticated and where it does involve planning and sophistication it should fall into culpability A as the factors currently stand.

1.6 A magistrate respondent suggested the culpability A factor ('Involvement of others through coercion, intimidation or exploitation') could read: 'instigated/approved the involvement of others'. The difficulty with this suggestion is that the current wording is consistent with that used elsewhere in guidelines.

1.7 The City of London Police proposed additions to culpability factors relating to:

1. The offender receiving advice or warnings that their activity is criminal. They state: 'Trademark law is a field in which civil solicitors and private companies routinely deliver cease and desist notices to offenders - in such circumstances where notices have been ignored this should increase culpability.'
2. Any indication of subverting or corrupting a system – 'I am aware of a number of occasions where criminals have received counterfeit goods from investigators in order to destroy them and have instead resold them.'

1.8 The first of these suggestions is covered at step 2 by the aggravating factor 'failure to respond to warnings about behaviour'. The second is not a scenario that has been seen in any of the transcripts or reported cases, but it may be felt that this is adequately covered by 'Sophisticated nature of offence/ significant planning'.

2 Harm

2.1 The legal committee of HM Council of District Judges (Magistrates' Courts) agreed 'with the proposed method of assessing harm but find the general assessment of harm part somewhat verbose and not easy to follow. We entirely agree that these elements are necessary in this part of the guideline, but believe it would be far easier for sentencers to follow this in some form of flow chart or table format, for example along the lines of':

2.2 One magistrate respondent suggested using the wholesale value rather than the retail value to assess harm, another wondered if reputational harm should be included and a third thought the assessment should reflect the harm to consumers who purchase goods in the belief that they are genuine.

3 Aggravating and mitigating factors

3.1 There were suggestions for adding aggravating factors that appear in the fraud guideline: the Magistrates' Association and Council of Her Majesty's Circuit Judges (HMCJ) suggested 'offences committed across borders' and HMCJ also suggested 'Steps taken to prevent any victim reporting or obtaining assistance and/or from assisting or supporting the prosecution' (although they accepted that this would only apply rarely). The first of those suggestions was in an earlier draft of the guideline but was removed because it was felt that it risked double counting with the culpability factor relating to planning and sophistication.

3.2 Another suggestion for an aggravating factor was: 'violence displayed towards enforcers.' This is not an issue that has been seen in transcripts and if it occurred and did not lead to separate charges, the fact that the factors are non-exhaustive means that a court would be able to take it into account.

3.3 There were several comments about the mitigating factor, 'Lapse of time since apprehension where this does not arise from the conduct of the offender'. HM Council of District Judges (Magistrates' Courts) said that it should refer to the offence date rather than date of apprehension. Two magistrate respondents disagreed with the factor, one stating that it was common and did not usually result in a reduction. City of London Police expressed concern that this would be a common occurrence because of the delays caused by Covid. There is an expanded explanation for this factor which reads:

Where there has been an unreasonable delay in proceedings since apprehension which is not the fault of the offender, the court may take this into account by reducing the sentence if this has had a detrimental effect on the offender.

Note: No fault should attach to an offender for not admitting an offence and/or putting the prosecution to proof of its case.

3.4 A magistrate disagreed with the factor, 'Offender co-operated with investigation, made early admissions and/or voluntarily reported offending' unless it leads to the conviction of another as it would overlap with the guilty plea reduction. Another magistrate did not understand the factor, 'Serious medical condition requiring urgent, intensive or long-term treatment' in relation to this offence or how it would be proved in magistrates' courts.

3.5 GlaxoSmithKline suggested that good character should be irrelevant.

Approach to sentencing historic sexual offences

When sentencing sexual offences under the Sexual Offences Act 1956, or other legislation pre-dating the 2003 Act, the court should apply the following principles:¹

1. The offender must be sentenced in accordance with the sentencing regime applicable at the date of sentence. Under sections 57 and 63 of the Sentencing Code the court must have regard to the statutory purposes of sentencing and must base the sentencing exercise on its assessment of the seriousness of the offence.
2. The sentence is limited to the maximum sentence available at the date of the commission of the offence. If the maximum sentence has been reduced, the lower maximum will be applicable.
3. The court should have regard to any applicable sentencing guidelines for equivalent offences under the Sexual Offences Act 2003. Where the offence, if committed on the day on which the offender was convicted, would have constituted an offence contrary to section 5 or section 6 of the Sexual Offences Act 2003, sections 265 and 278 of the Sentencing Code (special custodial sentence for certain offenders of particular concern) apply.
4. The seriousness of the offence, assessed by the culpability of the offender and the harm caused or intended, is the main consideration for the court. The court should not seek to establish the likely sentence had the offender been convicted shortly after the date of the offence.
5. When assessing the culpability of the offender, the court should have regard to relevant culpability factors set out in any applicable guideline.
6. The court must assess carefully the harm done to the victim based on the facts available to it, having regard to relevant harm factors set out in any applicable guideline. Consideration of the circumstances which brought the offence to light will be of importance.
7. The court must consider the relevance of the passage of time carefully as it has the potential to aggravate or mitigate the seriousness of the offence. It will be an aggravating factor where the offender has continued to commit sexual offences against the victim or others or has continued to prevent the victim reporting the offence.
8. Where there is an absence of further offending over a long period of time, especially combined with evidence of good character, this may be treated by the court as a mitigating factor. However, as with offences dealt with under the Sexual Offences Act 2003, previous good character/exemplary conduct is different from having no previous convictions. The more serious the offence, the less the weight which should normally be attributed to this factor. Where previous good character/exemplary conduct has been used to facilitate the offence, this mitigation should not normally be allowed and such conduct may constitute an aggravating factor.

9. If the offender was very young and immature at the time of the offence, depending on the circumstances of the offence, this may be regarded as personal mitigation.
 10. If the offender made admissions at the time of the offence that were not investigated this is likely to be regarded as personal mitigation. Even greater mitigation is available to the offender who reported himself to the police and/or made early admissions.
 11. A reduction for an early guilty plea should be made in the usual manner.
